

The Art Of Marketing Art Online Using Twitter

Heidi Bjork is an Icelandic artist painting watercolour art in black and white. Heidi first started using Twitter in 2009 as a way to show her artwork online. Before long she had thousands of followers, receiving feedback from other artists all over the world and making connections leading to several opportunities in the art world. Heidi decided to write this ebook to help other artists market their art and brand online using Twitter by recommending several successful strategies and applications she has tested recently. The ebook includes tips that both beginners and advanced internet users will find helpful including: How to create a powerful brand on Twitter; choosing your username; selecting your profile picture; creating a customized profile background; how to upload images onto Twitter and what program to use; how to make sure search engines like Google can find your images; which directories to submit your Twitter profile to; how to use and find out about hashtags; @mentions; retweets; how to search for information on Twitter; Twitter lists and how to use them effectively; how to generate traffic using Twitter; how to shorten links on Twitter and what URL shortner to use to increase clicks on your art; how to grow your followers; Twitter karma explained; how to automate following and unfollowing users; how to bulk unfollow many Twitter users at once; how to keep your followers; using RSS to increase clicks on your art; recommends the best Twitter software/applications/management tools
