

Enheartenment: Embodiment of the divine human

First new spiritual paradigm in 2500 years to include enlightenment of the emotional body Enheartenment, by DS Barron, offers a complete reformulation of spiritual, therapeutic, philosophical, ethical, and religious paradigms and belief systems of the last 2500 years. In this work, Barron offers a meta-model called Theohumanity that defines the criteria for human emotional and spiritual maturity for the first time in history, and in doing so exposes the emotional-based distortions of essentially every system of thought in human history. With emotional maturity as a foundation and pre-requisite for all other growth, Barron offers an unprecedented path for healing and the embodiment of what he calls the divine human.
