

How to Make a Living as a Working Actor in L.A.

How to Make a Living as a Working Actor in L.A. covers modern techniques for getting and maintaining paying acting work. This book covers everything from non-union background work to landing co-star and guest star roles on television. Michael-John Wolfe (Collateral / Mr. & Mr. Smith / The Shaggy Dog) provides the reader with his industry secrets for earning a steady income while working on film, television and commercial sets. In 2006 Michael-John earned $84,939 in acting earnings alone, proving that even non-name actors can make a healthy living doing what they love. In the back of this book you will also find a list of SAG franchised Agents, Casting Director workshops, background casting companies, major studio addresses, soap opera casting offices and websites used by the author to obtain acting work. UPDATE: Since this book was published in 2007 many of the names and addresses of casting directors and agents may have changed. You may have to search the Internet for updated addresses before submitting your info to them. The techniques in this book that the author used to obtain paid acting work have not changed since the original publication date.
