

The Quran and its Interpretative Tradition (Variorum Collected Studies Series)

The position of the Quran as the central symbol and reference point of Islam cannot be disputed. Despite this significance, the academic study of the Quran has lagged far behind that of the Bible. In these studies Andrew Rippin reflects upon both the principles and the problems of studying the Quran within the discipline of religious studies. He also pursues detailed investigations of the meaning of variants to the text and the history of Muslim interpretation of the text in its diversity. A newly written introduction lays out some of the general implications of these studies, while extensive indexes of Quranic verses, books, authors and topics make this research more readily accessible.
